Bowl With Kufic Inscription

9th Century, Abbasid

Ceramic

Diameter: 20cm

Glazed ceramic bowl with a convex wall and everted rim. With a cobalt blue inscription in the centre which reads. "baraka li-sahibihi" (blessing to its owner).

Ceramics such as this bowl are among the first examples to incorporate calligraphy as the main element of decoration. The Abbasid potters of the ninth century attempted to emulate the luminous quality and hard body of Chinese whitewares by using a tin-opacified white glaze, however, the use of cobalt blue is a novel departure that was to have a profound and long-lasting influence on world ceramics. The application of cobalt directly into the raw glaze creates a soft impression, described by Arthur Lane as "like ink on snow".
